7. A licence applicant shall present such factual circumstances that demonstrate compliance with additional licence conditions whose verification does not directly relate to the administrative procedure for issuing a licence.

8. A licence applicant need not present documents verifying factual circumstances that demonstrate compliance with additional licence conditions if another administrative body issues such documents and if the licence is issued based on those documents.

Another administrative body may issue a substantiated refusal to verify the factual circumstances provided in paragraph 7 of this article.

11. The other administrative body shall make a decision on verifying or on refusing to verify factual circumstances not later than 25 days after the application copies and attached documents are submitted to the licence issuer. If the above timeframe is not sufficient to determine factual circumstances provided in paragraph 7 of this article, the other administrative body may request an extension of the timeframe by filing a substantiated request not later than five days after receiving the application copies and attached documents. If the other administrative body makes a decision, it shall submit the decision to the licence issuer not later than 27 days after submitting the application to the licence issuer.

12. If a licence issuer does not satisfy the substantiated request filed by another administrative body, the licence issuer shall be responsible for damages incurred as a result of the action.

2¹. If, before transferring the licence in full or in part, a licence holder is at the same time the person determined by the Environmental Assessment Code, to whom an environmental decision has been issued, after completing the procedure established by paragraph 2 of this article, the licence holder and the licence recipient shall apply to the authorised administrative body issuing the environmental decision with the request to make changes to the appropriate registry of decisions, to receive the original copy of the decision and to establish the environmental conditions in compliance with the decision. In such case, the liability for violation of the environmental conditions shall be determined individually for each entity, in accordance with the conditions established for the entity. The authorised administrative body issuing the environmental decision shall review the submitted application, together with the attached documents, through a simple administrative procedure, and shall make a respective decision.

Article 21 – Monitoring the performance of licence conditions

1. A licence issuer shall monitor the performance of the licence conditions by a licence holder. A licence issuer may carry out monitoring unless the above function, under legislation, falls within the competence of another administrative body. In the cases provided by law, a licence issuer may also monitor requirements determined in other normative acts, and the types of liability established under this Law may be applied for violating those requirements.
2. A licence issuer shall carry out monitoring only by random inspection of the performance of the licence conditions and/or by reports regularly submitted by a licence holder.
3. From 1 April to 1 May each year, a licence holder shall submit a report on observing the licence conditions unless otherwise provided for by law. The report shall be submitted to the licence issuer in writing. If a licence holder obtains a licence within six months before the reporting period commences, it shall not be required to submit the report to the licence issuer.
4. If a submitted report does not clearly declare or show that the licence conditions are observed, the licence issuer may request the licence holder to present information evidencing that the licence conditions are observed within a reasonable period of time.
5. If a licence holder fails to fulfil the requirements referred to in paragraph 4 of this article, the liability provided by legislation shall be imposed on the licence holder.
6. A licence issuer shall monitor the performance of the licence conditions only by checking compliance with the licence conditions. A licence issuer may not inspect or request the submission of factual circumstances that are not directly related to observance of the licence conditions by a licence holder.
7. The decision of a licence issuer to carry out random inspections shall be an administrative act. The licence issuer shall be required to present the administrative act to the licence holder during a random inspection.
8. Based on the decision of a licence issuer, representatives of other administrative bodies may also participate in a random inspection.
9. A licence issuer shall draw up an inspection report after completing a random inspection. The report shall be entered into the register maintained by the licence issuer for that purpose.
10. A licence issuer may monitor performance of licence conditions only once in a calendar year unless otherwise provided by Law.

Article 22 – Liability for violating licence conditions; repealing a licence

1. If a licence holder fails to perform the conditions laid down by law, it shall be penalized in the manner laid down in legislation. The amount of the penalty shall be determined by law. The licence issuer shall set a reasonable time for meeting the licence conditions and shall lay down the conditions that must be fulfilled to carry out a particular activity.
2. If a licence holder, despite having been penalised, fails to perform the licence conditions within the time set, the imposed fine shall be tripled. When imposing the penalty, the time and conditions for performance of the licence conditions shall be set for the licence holder.
3. If a licence holder fails to perform the licence conditions after the period set at the time of imposing a triple penalty expires, the imposed penalty shall be tripled.
4. If a licence holder fails to meet the licence conditions despite having been penalised under paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 of this article, the licence issuer shall repeal the licence.
- 4¹. If it is obvious that penalising a licence holder for not performing the conditions of the licence to use and/or the requirements determined for the use of a specific object has no result, the licence issuer may repeal the licence by a summary administrative procedure.
5. A licence issuer shall justify the necessity of using that form of liability in its decision on repealing the licence.
6. Repealing a licence shall mean declaring invalid the decision on issuing the licence under the General Administrative Code of Georgia.
7. Apart the provisions of Article 61 of the General Administrative Code of Georgia, the decision to issue a licence shall be declared invalid if:

- a) the licence holder so requests;
- b) the holder of a licence to operate dies (is liquidated), or is recognised as dead or missing, or declared as a beneficiary of support under the established procedure, unless otherwise determined under court decision;
- c) the licence conditions set down by legislation are not fulfilled;
- d) there is a court judgment of conviction in force depriving the right to carry out activities.

7¹. A licence issuer may repeal the licence for use of natural resources that is seized, pledged, or otherwise encumbered as determined by this Law, if grounds for repealing the licence exist. Repealing the licence shall result in revoking the corresponding seizure, pledge, or other forms of encumbrance.

8. A licence issuer shall decide to repeal a licence as determined by this Law for issuing licences. The licence issuer shall immediately notify the licence holder of commencing an administrative procedure for repealing the licence.

9. A licence issuer shall make a substantiated decision on repealing a licence within three days and immediately notify the licence holder of the repeal if there are grounds determined in paragraph 7(d) of this article, as well as in case of emergency when the delayed decision may cause substantial damage to public or private interests.

9¹. If a licence holder fails to duly pay the regulatory fee determined in Article 7(1, 2, 4, 5, and 9) of this Law, it shall be penalised. In addition, despite having been penalised, if a licence holder fails to pay the regulatory fee within thirty days after the deadline for paying the regulatory fee expires, the licence issuer may repeal the licence by a summary administrative procedure.

10. A licence certificate shall be returned to the licence issuer within three days after the decision to repeal the licence takes effect.

11. Liability, in the form of repealing a licence, shall only be applied if penalising the licence holder cannot ensure performance of the licence conditions and if the licence issuer proves that repealing the licence will not cause more damage than its operation.

12. If repealing a licence may cause more damage than the extension of its validity or if its suspension is essentially impossible, a licence issuer shall make a substantiated decision to grant the right to a licence holder to continue the licensed activity under the conditions laid down by the licence issuer. In that case, the licence holder shall perform the additional licence conditions within a reasonable time set by the licence issuer.

13. If a licence holder fails to fulfil the licence conditions in the case provided in paragraph 12 of this article, the licence issuer may decide to perform the licence conditions itself or through a third person on behalf of, and at the expense of, the licence holder irrespective of whether or not a liability has been imposed on the licence holder.

14. In the case of the types of licences provided for by law, where it is impossible to fulfil the licence conditions as laid down in paragraph 13 of this article, the court shall decide to appoint a special manager at the request of the licence issuer to perform the licensed activity and to satisfy the licence conditions. If a delay may cause damage, the licence issuer shall appoint a special manager by a substantiated decision and immediately submit it to the court for decision.

15. The procedure laid down in paragraphs 12, 13 and 14 of this article may apply, irrespective of whether or not the licence holder has been penalised, if the licence issuer knows in advance that penalising the licence holder will not ensure performance of the licence conditions. The licence issuer shall substantiate the decision.

16. A special manager may take all measures related to the licensable activity in order to satisfy the licence conditions, as soon as possible, at the expense of the licence holder. The court shall approve a monthly progress report of the activity carried out by the special manager unless a different period of time is provided for by law.

17. A special manager shall be appointed for a definite period, taking into account the licence conditions to be performed. If the licence conditions are not satisfied within the time set, the court may extend the time.

18. A licence holder shall immediately submit, upon request, any information and material resources related to the licensable activity to the special manager. If a licence holder fails to fulfil this obligation or hinders the special manager in performance of his/her duties, the licence holder shall be held liable as provided in legislation.

19. If a special manager or a licence holder performs the licence conditions, the court shall revoke the special management.

20. All actions intended to perform the licence conditions, including a special manager's remuneration, shall be carried out at the expense of the licence holder.

21. Taking into account the specific nature of the licensable activity, the issues related to the powers, activity, and remuneration of a special manager may additionally be regulated by a normative act of the licence issuer or its higher (supervisory) administrative body.

22. If a licence holder holds a general licence and fails to meet the licence conditions governing a specific activity from the similar types of activities, the licence holder may carry out the other activities provided in the general licence. Failure to perform the licence conditions governing a specific type of activity may not be grounds for prohibiting performance of other activities provided in the general licence.

23. If a general licence holder carries out any specific type of activity from the similar types of activities in violation of the licence conditions governing the specific activity, it shall be held liable as laid down in this article.

24. The procedure for monitoring a licence holder with regard to performance of the conditions of a licence to use and of the requirements for using a specific object, as well as the liability for violating the requirements shall be determined by Articles 21 and 22 of this Law.

25. (Deleted – 16.3.2012, No 5854).

26. Paragraphs 11-21 of this article shall not apply to the case determined in paragraph 7(d) of the same article.

Chapter VII – Procedure for Issuing Permits under a Summary Administrative Procedure

Article 25 – Documents to be submitted to obtain a permit

1. To obtain a permit, a permit applicant shall submit a written application to the permit issuer. A permit application shall be submitted, considered, and accepted for processing as set forth in Chapter VI of the General Administrative Code of Georgia, except as provided in Articles 26² and 26³ of this Law.
2. An application shall meet the requirements of Article 78 of the General Administrative Code of Georgia. It shall also specify the type of permit requested by the permit applicant and a list of attached documents.
3. Legal entities under private law and individual entrepreneurs shall attach to the application extracts from the state register, and natural persons shall attach the copies of documents confirming their identity as provided by legislation. A legal entity under public law shall attach certified copies of its constituent documents to the application.
4. The document evidencing payment of a permit fee shall also be attached to the application, except as provided in Articles 26¹, 26² and 26³ of this Law, and except when a permit applicant is a ministry under the Law of Georgia on the Structure, Powers, and Operating Procedures of the Government of Georgia or a public sub-agency within the ministry. The permit fee amount, the procedure for its payment to the budget, and the refund procedure for an excess amount paid by the permit applicant shall be determined by the Law of Georgia on Licence and Permit Fees. Additional documents to be attached shall be determined only by law.

5. Taking into account the specific nature of an activity, additional conditions for obtaining a permit, apart from the conditions provided in this article, shall be determined by Law or by decision of a local self-government representative body under this Law.

6. If a permit applicant applies for a permit for a specific action and holds a permit for a similar type of action, the permit issuer shall not inspect the factual circumstances that satisfied the permit conditions and were verified at the time of issuing the previous permit.

7. A permit applicant shall present factual circumstances that meet the additional conditions of the permit, the verification of which is not directly related to the administrative procedure for issuing the permit. The factual circumstances shall be verified under a separate administrative procedure.

8. A permit applicant need not present documents verifying factual circumstances that meet the additional conditions if the documents are issued by another administrative body and represent grounds for issuing the permit.

9. To verify and present factual circumstances provided in paragraph 7 of this article, a permit issuer shall, under Article 84 of the General Administrative Code of Georgia, transfer copies of the application and attached documents to another administrative body upon verifying compliance of the application with the requirements laid down by this Law. The permit issuer shall submit copies of the application and attached documents to the other administrative body not later than three days after verifying compliance of the application with the requirements determined by the Law.

10. The other administrative body shall participate in the administrative procedure for issuing a permit and shall be obliged to duly verify the factual circumstances that a permit applicant is not required verifying. Other administrative bodies may issue a substantiated refusal to verify the factual circumstances provided in paragraph 7 of this article.

11. Another administrative body shall decide to verify or to refuse to verify the factual circumstances not later than 15 days after submitting the application copies and attached documents to the permit issuer. Unless the time is sufficient to verify the factual circumstances provided in paragraph 7 of this article, the other administrative body may file a substantiated request to extend the time not later than five days after receiving the application copies and attached documents. If the other administrative body makes a decision, it shall submit the decision to the permit issuer not later than 17 days after submitting the application to the permit issuer.

12. If a permit issuer fails to satisfy the substantiated request of another administrative body, the permit issuer shall be liable for any damages consequently incurred.

13. If another administrative body fails to duly verify or provide a substantiated refusal to verify the factual circumstances within the time, the additional permit conditions laid down by legislation shall be deemed to be satisfied.

14. A permit issuer may not request a permit applicant to present verification of the factual circumstances provided in paragraph 7 of this article.

15. If the data under paragraphs 2 and 3 of this article change, the permit holder shall notify in writing the permit issuer about the change and shall submit relevant documents within seven days after making the changes.

16. If a legal person carries out a permitted action, a branch of the legal person may also carry out the same action. For a branch to carry out the permitted action, the permit holder shall notify the permit issuer in advance that the branch meets the permit conditions. A permit issuer may not establish additional conditions or a regime that requires issuing a separate permit for a branch of the legal person holding a permit. If a legal person or its branch carries out an action regulated by permit and their permit does not cover that action, the legal person shall obtain the respective permit.

2. Deleted (11.10.2011, No 5093).

3. A decision to issue, to refuse to issue, or to repeal a permit shall be an administrative act and shall meet the requirements set for an administrative legal act under Chapter IV of the General Administrative Code of Georgia.

4. The permit issuer shall make the decision within 15 days after the application is submitted.

5. The time for issuing a permit may not be extended under paragraph 6 of this article unless a permit applicant is notified about the extension within 20 days after the application is submitted.

6. The Government of Georgia shall decide to extend the time for issuing a permit for up to three extra months based on a substantiated request of a permit issuer if due to specific circumstances the permit cannot be issued within the time determined by law. The licence issuer shall immediately notify the licence applicant of the decision of the Government.

7. If a specific type of permit, the issuing period of which may be extended under paragraph 6 of this article, represents a major hazard to human life and health, is related to a wider range of state and public interests, and the circumstances envisaged by such action take more than three months to verify, the permit issuer may submit a substantiated request to the Government of Georgia for extending the period for issuing the permit for another three months. If the above conditions exist and the permit issuer learns about them upon submitting the application, the permit issuer may submit a substantiated request to the Government of Georgia to extend the permit issuing period for up to six months.

8. If the Government of Georgia accepts the substantiated request of a permit issuer, it shall decide to extend the permit issuing period for three months. If the grounds provided in paragraph 9 of this article exist, a permit issuer shall submit the substantiated request to the Government of Georgia within two months after submitting an application and immediately notify the permit applicant of extending the period.

9. If the time for an administrative procedure for issuing a permit is extended for up to three or six months, a permit issuer may decide to extend the period for verifying the factual circumstances for up to two months under a substantiated request of another administrative body.

10. A permit issuer shall decide to issue a permit within 20 days after submitting an application. If the decision on issuing or on refusing to issue the permit is not made within the above period, the permit shall be deemed issued.

11. A permit applicant may request a permit certificate after the permit issuing period expires. The permit issuer shall immediately issue the permit certificate.

Article 34 – Liability for violating permit conditions; repealing a permit

1. If a permit holder fails to perform the permit conditions set by law, it shall be penalised as provided by legislation. The penalty amount shall be determined by law. A permit issuer shall set a reasonable time for satisfying the permit conditions and shall determine the conditions whose fulfilment is necessary to carry out a specific action.
2. If a permit holder, despite having a liability imposed, fails to fulfil the permit conditions within the set time (except when holders of a permit for setting up a slot club, casino, betting house, lotto, and bingo violate the time for permit fee payment), the imposed penalty shall be tripled. When imposing a penalty, the time and conditions shall be set for the permit holder to meet the permit conditions.
3. If a permit holder fails to meet the permit conditions after the period set for imposing a triple penalty expires, the imposed penalty shall be tripled.
4. If a permit holder fails to meet the permit conditions despite having the penalties determined by paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 of this article imposed, the permit issuer shall decide to repeal the permit.
- 4¹. If a permit holder fails to fulfil permit conditions, despite having been penalised under Article 37¹ (b, d, f, h, j or n) of the Law of Georgia on Organising Lottery, Gambling, and Winning Games, the permit issuer shall decide to repeal the permit.
- 4². If a permit for setting up a casino/slot club is repealed, a permit for setting up a gambling club issued under that permit shall also be repealed.
5. In a decision to repeal a permit, the permit issuer shall justify the necessity of applying that type of liability.
6. Repealing a permit shall mean declaring invalid the decision on issuing the permit under the General Administrative Code of Georgia.
7. Apart from the provisions of Article 61 of the General Administrative Code of Georgia, the decision to issue a permit shall be declared invalid on the following grounds:
 - a) request of a permit holder;
 - b) death (liquidation) of a permit holder, recognition of a permit holder as dead or missing, or declaration as a beneficiary of support under the established procedure, unless otherwise determined under court decision;
 - c) failure to fulfil permit conditions laid down by law;
 - d) court judgment of guilty in force depriving the right to carry out an activity.
8. A permit issuer shall decide to repeal a permit under the procedures laid down in this Law for issuing a permit. The permit issuer shall immediately notify the permit holder of the commencement of an administrative procedure for repealing the permit.

9. A permit issuer shall make a substantiated decision on repealing a permit within three days and immediately notify the permit holder of the repeal if there are grounds under paragraph 7(d) of this article, as well as in case of emergency when a delayed decision may cause substantial damage to public or private interests.
10. The decision to repeal a permit may be appealed to a higher administrative body (official) or to the court.
11. A permit certificate shall be returned to the permit issuer within three days after a decision to repeal a permit comes into effect.
12. If repealing a permit may cause more damage than the extension of its validity or if the suspension of its validity is essentially impossible, a permit issuer shall make a substantiated decision to grant the right to a permit holder to carry out the action under the permit, provided that the permit conditions set by the permit issuer are met. In that case, the permit holder shall fulfil the additional permit conditions within the reasonable time set by the permit issuer.
13. If a permit holder fails to fulfil the permit conditions in the case determined by paragraph 12 of this article, the permit issuer may perform the permit conditions by itself or through a third person on behalf of and at the expense of the permit holder irrespective of whether or not a liability has been imposed on the permit holder.
14. In the case of the permit types provided for by law, where it is impossible to fulfil the permit conditions as laid down in paragraph 13 of this article, the court shall appoint a special manager at the request of the permit issuer to perform an action under the permit and to fulfil the permit conditions. If a delay may cause damage, the permit issuer shall appoint a special manager by a substantiated decision and immediately submit it to the court for decision.
15. The procedures in paragraphs 12, 13 and 14 of this article may be applied, irrespective of whether or not the permit holder has been penalised, if the permit issuer knows in advance that imposing a penalty on the permit holder will not ensure the fulfilment of the permit conditions. The permit issuer shall be obliged to substantiate the decision.
16. A special manager may carry out all measures related to an action under the permit in order to fulfil the permit conditions, as soon as possible, at the expense of the permit holder. The court shall approve a monthly progress report of the activity carried out by the special manager unless a different time is laid down by law.
17. A special manager shall be appointed for a definite period, taking into account the permit conditions to be fulfilled. If the permit conditions are not fulfilled within the time, the court may extend the timeframe.
18. A permit holder shall immediately provide all information and material resources related to the action under the permit to a special manager upon request.
